TeMEx International Industrial Online Expo

The TeMEx International Industrial Online Expo will open on October 14, 2020, bringing together companies from all over the globe and showcasing a variety of new products on one platform – from large-scale equipment and raw materials to research and development, IT-solutions and industrial automation.

The pandemic has put communication at exhibitions on hold, but production processes, as well as research and development of novelty products continued in many countries. The Industrial Online Expo TeMEx will help manufacturing companies demonstrate their new developments and business offers to colleagues and partners all over the world.

The name of the event stands for Technology and Machinery Expo. The key motto - Every Link Counts! – serves to emphasize correlation between the local industry in each country and the global economic ecosystem.

The industries of mechanical engineering and metalworking are supported by a number of other industries, including metallurgy, power generation, chemistry, technological education and industrial automation. All industries, as well as various spheres of social life are interconnected and contribute to development and wellbeing of countries and people. In the present tough times the mission of TeMEx Expo is to facilitate both national and international trade of various industrial products and exchange of experience between professionals from multiple countries.

A number of associated online conferences, seminars and B2B-sessions will be held as part of the exhibition program with participation of public authorities> professionals and business people from different countries.

The leading belarusian industrial enterprises well-known all over the world: AMKODOR, BELAZ, MOGILEVLIFTMASH, MAZ, Byelorussian Steel Works, Minsk electrotechnical plant named after V.I.Kozlov, National Academy of Sciences of Belarus, etc. will take part in this virtual event.
